The presentation focused on the initial demographic, economic, and social data gathered from households across the municipality. Highlights included updates on population size and structure, employment and income levels, access to basic services, education, housing conditions, and health-related indicators. These initial findings serve as critical tools for the LGU, enabling more-timely, evidence-based decision-making and effective local planning.

The activity also included an open forum where department heads could ask questions, share feedback, and suggest areas for data checking. This helped improve data accuracy and encouraged teamwork among offices in using statistics for local development.
